SHARE-ing With the Local Community

Mattapoissett Residents Learn the Value of Giving

Once a month, people in the Mattapoissett area have been finding out that there is just as much joy in giving as there is in receiving.

Through the efforts of The Friends of the Elderly and SHARE New England, residents can participate in a supplemental food program which is based not on financial need but on service to the community.

"The program is not income based," said Floor Coordinator Nancy Perry during last week's Saturday morning food distribution. "It's for anyone who puts in two hours of community service ... and that can be something as simple as helping to wash your neighbors' windows or mow their lawn."

"Area residents can all participate regardless of their personal assets," agreed SHARE Coordinator Vivianne Surprenant. "If you are willing to offer service to the community, you qualify."

SHARE volunteers had their hands full last week as 97 units of food were distributed to participating residents from Old Hammondtown School. Each unit of food costs only $14 plus two hours of community service which must be validated by the person to whom service was rendered. Then, residents come in to pickup their prepared food packages which contain up to $35 of quality food.

This September food package consisted of chicken thighs, corn sausage, beef fajitas, breaded fish fillets, ground turkey, broccoli, carrots, tomatoes, cucumbers, potatoes, onions, Vermont apples, bananas, pears, 16 bean soup mix, peanuts, pancake mix, and Jello pudding cups.

In addition to food, the program also offers a rare opportunity for people to be on the giving as well as the receiving end.

One such example is Paul Hubbard, an eighth grade student at ORR Junior High School who is confined to a wheelchair. Mr. Hubbard said he started participating in the SHARE program to return some of the care and understanding the town has given him in the past.

"Besides, now that I'm back in school, this gives me a chance to get out of the house and do something good," the 14-year-old said. "My mother started working with the program when it was at the Seahorse, but I couldn't start helping until they switched to (Old Hammondtown)."

those people who can't afford food," he said. "Here they can get good food cheap."

In addition to area residents donating their time and effort, local businesses also get involved with the distribution. First and foremost is Mahoney's Building Supply Center which donates the use of their vehicles to transport the food to the distribution location each month. Other volunteers also assist in getting food to the elderly and shut-ins on the roster.

Volunteers were at Old Hammondtown School by 11:00 am last Saturday morning to begin the arduous bagging process, whereby one of each item is packaged for distribution.

Mahoney's Building Supply Center's Truck arrives with the SHARE packages.

Like worker bees tending to the hive, the job was completed within a half hour.

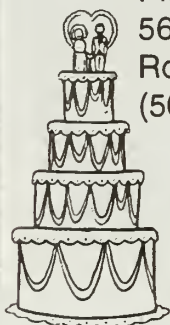

By 12:00 noon, people began filing in with shopping bags in hand and tote carts in tow, ready to pickup their monthly supply. It was apparent from looking at the group that indeed age, financial, and/or social status did not matter. All members of the community were well represented, sharing a friendly smile and a kind word to their fellow townsfolk.

If you are interested in signing up for the October SHARE program, you can do so at Old Hammondtown School on Tuesday, October 6 between 11:00 am and 1:00 pm. Food packages will be available at the school on Saturday, October 24 between 12:00 noon and 1:30 pm. Or for more information on the program or how you can help, call Vivianne Surprenant at 758-6451.

Business "Sprouts" in Rochester Jonathan's Sprouts Amounts to More Than a Hill of Beans

Fourteen years ago, the fledgling business started with a few seeds, some donated mayonnaise jars and a vision, according to the company's promotional press release.

Today, Jonathan's Sprouts, located on Vaughn's Hill Road in Rochester, is a million dollar business and the largest supplier of bean sprouts on the east coast, specializing in everything from alfalfa and Chinese Mung bean sprouts (commonly used in Chop Suey) to hybrid mixes of alfalfa and radish.

The booming production facility — which remains obscure and sedate behind the walls of an innocuous farming house — ships its finished product to stores and restaurants all along the east coast. And with a recent surge in health-conscious Americans watching their diet, things couldn't be better.

But the real beauty of this business lies in the fact that the entire "growing" process — from seed to sprout — takes only three to five days. That means what would take a full-time farmer weeks to produce can be done within the same working week at the company's indoor facility.

"Ours is not a seasonal product," said Production Manager Bea Escalante during a recent tour of the bustling compound. "So regardless of the weather, we put out the same product at the same price year round."

over fifteen years ago, the company is now owned and operated by President Barbara Sanderson and employs roughly 50 people from the tri-town area (a few come from as far as Dartmouth). Most of the company's employees are predominantly women which Ms. Escalante said stemmed from a tendency to cater to working mothers in the company's early days.

"We began hiring mothers during school hours who worked anywhere from 20 to 45 hours a week," Ms. Escalante said. "Many of those who started part-time have now been with the company for several years."

Ms. Escalante, who resides in Mattapoisett, began as part-time help and has worked her way up to Production Manager at the plant.

Working on a rotating seven day schedule, the plant ships out approximately 4500 cases of product each week — over 500 pounds in alfalfa sprouts alone.

With the exception of Wednesday and Saturday, shipments are sent out daily via the company's two trucks. Two of Jonathan's Sprouts biggest customers — for which they provide personalized labeling — are Shaw's and Stop & Shop supermarkets, which buy sprouts both in bulk for use in their salad bars and to resale to customers.

In the case of the Chinese Mung bean sprouts — a very popular ingredient in Oriental cooking — the harvested seeds are first soaked in Artesian well water (which is what the facility uses for all its sprouts). After that, the seedling sprouts, which already show signs of a small budding stub, are rinsed, dried and packed into 20 pound stainless steel tubes which are then watered regularly via a computerized system.

Over the course of the next three days, the sprouts will literally double in size each day they are cultivated. A temperature of 72 degrees Fahrenheit is maintained and the tubes are kept both moist and relatively dark to assist the germinating process.

"That's what they need to grow," said Ms. Escalante. "It has to be dark, damp and hot."

The twenty pounds of seeds placed in each bin — which will eventually yield over 100 pounds of sprouts — are then hydro cooled with cold water, which also separates the seed from the hull to add an increased eye appeal to

Sprouts Are Good Food

Source: New England Sprout Growers' Association

While relatively new on the American culinary scene, sprouts have been cultivated for thousands of years. From China to the Middle East to Europe, sprouts have long been valued for their abundance of life-giving nutrients.

Bean sprouts are low in calories and provide a good source of vitamins B, C, and K, phosphorus, calcium, and potassium, as well as fiber, iron and thiamin. The potential uses for sprouts are only limited by one's imagination. Sprouts are good in sandwiches, pocket bread, salads, stir-fry dishes and soups.

Seed sprouting is a highly intensive form of food production, which can produce a ton of food for every 5 days in a space of approximately 10 feet by 16 feet by 8 feet. Sprouts provide ounce for ounce more vitamins, proteins and enzymes than any other vegetables. Sprouts are a quick energy food that is easy to digest.

Each seed and bean contains a rich storehouse of oils, carbohydrates and proteins. When conditions are favorable for germination, the seed bursts, releasing its vitamin-rich supply of energy, enzymes and vital nutrients. The sprouts are harvested right here, at their peak of vitality. Sprouts are quick-energy food, entering the bloodstream rapidly, aiding digestion, building blood and stimulating tissue growth.

What all this means to you is that, ounce for ounce, sprouts are one of the most nutritious and economical foods you can buy.

resembles a large lottery barrel. Inside four compartments are sprouts which are alternately watered and drained on a cyclical basis. Alfalfa also requires a cooler climate and the temperature is accordingly maintained at 68 degrees Fahrenheit.

Recently, Jonathan's Sprouts has begun to experiment with mixing seeds for added flavor. Some of the more popular include a mixture of alfalfa with everything from onion and garlic seeds to radish and dill seeds. The company is also involved with education and has sent samples to both Yale and Brandeis for agricultural studies.

Ms. Escalante proudly displayed many of the company's vast line of products including a Munchin' Mix which is a vegetarian alternative to trail mix. The company is also hoping to get a beef burger substitute on the market soon made from lentil bean sprouts.

"They're a healthy product that's quick to produce," she said.

And there's never any question as to how fresh Jonathan's Sprouts are ... most were grown literally days before being placed on the shelf.

This week's cute little critter goes by the name of "Rusty," and as is apparent in the photo, he is quite fond of water — especially when taken straight from the tap. "Rusty" is an eight week old orange short-haired male. And like all of his furry sheltered friends, loves to cuddle close to a warm master.

Also available from the group are two all black kittens, one grey, one orange/white, one buff, and one grey calico. Another twelve week old recovering calico — who was recently hospitalized but is being nursed back to health in a Marion foster home — is also available for consideration this week.

If you would like to adopt any of these wonderful little creatures, please call either Priscilla Thompson at 758-2896 or Mary Lou Kobak at 994-6168. Mattapoisett Board of Health

Cancels Rubbish Pickup Contract Will Begin Interim Contract With BFI This Week

The Mattapoisett Board of Health (BOH) Monday night voted to cancel their existing contract with East Coast Disposal Contractors, Inc. due to "repeated and unresolved problems," according to BOH Agent Dale Barrows.

Ongoing difficulties culminated in the company's lack of service to half the town last Thursday (September 24) when their vehicle broke down — forcing residents to deal with unclaimed trash until the following Saturday.

"We wanted to be fair with (East Coast Disposal Contractors, Inc.) and try to work around their problems," said BOH Chairman Dan Lee Jr. "But we were forced to rethink our agreement."

"They simply weren't fulfilling their contract," said Mr. Barrows.

As a result of these problems, the Board granted an interim contract to Browning-Ferris Industries (BFI) out of Fall River to begin trash pickup in the town this week. The contract is temporary and will be renewed on a weekly basis, as needed.

Residents should be advised that contractual requirements with BFI dictate that trash be ready for pickup by 7:00 am on Thursday mornings. Although a similar code was in effect with East Coast, many residents might be used to the previous routine and should be aware of the stipulation.

The BOH will discuss the formal rebidding process at their next meeting and will then make a decision as to who will take over the town's trash pickup contract. With changes in state law, there are some standards which must be met before accepting bids. BFI will most likely be a strong contender for the long term contract.

"I'm not sure when we'll be seeking bids," Mr. Barrows said. "That all depends upon the new laws and how long the process will take."

In the meantime, Mattapoisett residents can rest assure that their garbage will be swiftly collected every Thursday morning.

Mattapoisett Selectmen's Meeting September 29, 1992

A meeting of the Mattapoisett Board of Selectmen was called to order on Tuesday, September 29, 1992 at 7:04 pm by Chairman John N. DeCosta. Present were Selectman Paul E. Lambalot, Selectman Daniel O. Mahoney and Executive Secretary Carol Adams.

After approving the minutes of the September 22, 1992 meeting and signing all payrolls, bills, licenses, permits, and correspondence for the week, Chairman DeCosta noted a formal request proclaiming October 24, 1992 as United Nations Day in the Town of Mattapoisett. The board unanimously voted to approve said request.

A letter was drafted and sent to Dr. Mark Mahoney thanking him for offering to run in the SEMASS Run for the Environment as a representative of the town and wishing him well in the October 3 race. The selectmen pooled together to purchase Dr. Mahoney a Mattapoisett T-shirt which he will wear during the event.

Another congratulatory letter was sent to Lisa Desroches, Miss Massachusetts and recent Miss America contestant for finishing in the Top 10. Ms. Desroches, who hails from Taunton, also spends time in Mattapoisett with her grandparents.

The Board then unanimously approved to renew a contract between the Town of Mattapoisett and the Animal Rescue League of New Bedford to care and shelter lost dogs who wander into the city. Under the terms of the one-year contract, any dogs taken in by the Rescue League will cost the town $9 per dog per day to shelter.

There being no meetings scheduled for the week, Chairman DeCosta next cited incoming correspondence beginning with a letter from Allan R. McKinnon, Chairman of the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority, informing the Board and the town of a public auction to dispose of surplus vehicles and equipment which will be held on October 29. An early bird viewing of the vehicles will take place on Tuesday, October 13 and Wednesday, October 14 between 8:00 am and 3:00 pm at the Weston Maintenance area on the Turnpike westbound.

Although Selectman Mahoney said the town is pretty well supplied with necessary vehicles for the moment, Selectman Lambalot suggested looking into what the Authority has to offer just the same. The Board will look into the formal process of bidding on said vehicles.

The Massachusetts Division of Marine Fisheries sent notification to the board that the following areas have now been "conditionally

Correspondence was also received from Board of Health (BOH) Agent Dale Barrows regarding their emergency meeting Monday night to cancel the Board's existing contract with East Coast Disposal Contractors, Inc. and to take on an interim contract with Browning-Ferris Industries in Fall River. The BOH cited "inadequate service" as the reason for terminating the contract.

Executive Secretary Carol Adams next informed the Board that Surveyor James Lanagan would like to make an appointment with them to walk through the Crooked Bow property which has recently been considered for purchase. Selectmen said they would get back to Ms. Adams with a convenient time at which to meet.

Ms. Adams also advised the Board that Daniel White, Chairman of the Mattapoisett Cable Advisory Committee, is seeking additional persons willing to serve on his committee. If anyone is interested, they are urged to contact the Selectman's Office or Ms. Adams.

of a meeting with the Board of Assessors slated for October 15 at 7:00 pm to allocate the local property tax levy among the five property classes for FY 1993 in the wake of the October 13 Special Town Meeting.

throughout the year and wanted to know what it was costing the town.

Ms. Adams explained that the facilities are donated, and the only cost incurred is for the printing of the warrants.

"With all these Special Town Meetings, when we get to the Annual Town Meeting, we've forgotten what we've spent," Mr. Atkinson said. "Then all these special interest groups get together and decide to plea their cause at a Special Town Meeting."

After a lengthy discussion during which Mr. Atkinson questioned the entire motivation of holding "up to four Special Town Meetings each year," Selectman Mahoney put the matter in perspective.

"I think that's an unfair characterization of what a Special Town Meeting is held for," Selectman Mahoney said. "For example, we didn't know until last week what our Free Cash was going to be for the year. This way, we leave it to the town voters to determine what gets spent where."

At 8:00 pm, the Board entertained a scheduled hearing to determine town package store openings on Sundays during the holiday season. Present was Rick Brown, owner of Romeo's Package Store on Water Street. With the new changes in the state's "blue laws," Chairman DeCosta said the package now have the option of opening from the Sunday before Thanksgiving to the Sunday before New Year's Day.

Selectman Lambalot wanted to stipulate that since this change is renewed each year, starting next year the Board of Selectmen should take a longterm mandate into consideration.

The Selectmen agreed that this being a personal preference on the part of liquor vendors, they would side with the state

Marion Selectmen's Meeting

September 29, 1992

By Chandra Dewing

A meeting of the Marion Board of Selectmen was called to order on Tuesday, September 29, 1992 at 7:00 pm by Chairwoman Loretta B. Schaefer. Present were Selectman Edwin "Ted" Pratt Jr., Selectman James S. Dougall, Executive Secretary Ray E. Pickles and Secretary Helene Craver.

A scheduled 7:00 pm meeting with Police

Chief Brian Scott and Officer James Vaccari was next on the agenda to introduce the board to the newly-hired officer. According to Chief Scott, Officer Vaccari has been a part-time officer with the Marion Police and is an exceptional man. The board unanimously voted to accept Officer Vaccari as a full-time police officer.

At 7:05 pm, Democratic candidate for Representative Marc Pacheco came before the board to discuss his plans for economic revitalization in the region. Mr. Pacheco said that whether or not he is successful in his bid for the representative seat, he will strive to ensure that the region's economic needs are met. Mr. Pacheco fielded questions from several spectators present at the meeting.

Mr. Pacheco stressed that it's not going to take just one legislator to correct economic problems, but everyone has to work together as a group to affect change.

After signing warrants and bonds and approving the minutes of the September 22, 1992 meeting, Chairwoman Schaefer noted a letter from Andrew B. Crane, Executive Director of the State Ethics Commission, concurring with the opinion regarding Sherman Briggs' not serving full-time on the Conservation Commission.

The next letter was from H. Tyler Blethen Jr. who is against the recommendation sponsored by the Buzzards Bay Action Committee (BBAC) to alter the present form of chapter 60B.

The change would mandate that 75 percent (rather than the current 50 percent) of boat excise tax collections be used for waterfront related activities. Mr. Blethen, among other residents, feel that they should focus on other public problems, instead of concentrating mainly on waterfront related activities. The Board of Selectmen disagreed with his analysis of the situation.

The board next received letters from Edward K. McSweeney, Chief of the Wastewater Management Branch and Brian M. Donahoe, Director of Department of Environmental Protection, who agreed to the final National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) permit issued pursuant to the Clean Water Act (the "Federal Act") as amended, and the Massachusetts Clean Waters Act (the "State Act"), as amended. The Wastewater branch responded well to the board's comments, according to Selectmen.

Ray E. Pickles, Executive Secretary, recommended that the Selectmen vote to install a 3000-lumen sodium vapor light for pole 33/480 on Wareham Street, to which the Board of

Rochester Selectmen's Meeting September 29, 1992

By Mariam Singer

A meeting of the Rochester Board of Selectmen was called to order on Monday, September 29, 1992 at 7:00 pm by Chairman

Harry A. Brown Jr. Present were Selectman Lorraine R.C. Roy and Secretary Shirley Ferreira.

Members of the Gateway Auto Club turned out en masse at the meeting in response to a noise complaint brought by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Butts. The Butts felt that the music coming from the Plumb Corner Mall during the Auto Club's Sunday "cruises" was just too loud.

Citing "an almost direct noise tunnel" between the mall parking lot and the Butts' home on Rounseville Road, Attorney Philip Beauregard, representing Mr. and Mrs. Butts, said that the problem could be mediated by declaring the issue a zoning matter to be settled by the Board of Appeals.

Colin McPhail, an organizer of the club, documented the numerous times that the club has attempted to alleviate the problem. He said

Blue Angel: The Life of Marlene Dietrich

• Donald Spoto, Doubleday, $24

Writing a good biography about Marlene Dietrich is difficult, because she was actively involved in the promulgation of her legend for most of her long life and was never interested in the unedited truth.

"You can't live without illusions," she is quoted as saying more than once, and she was sparing with the truth even in her own autobiography, Marlene.

In this serious biography, Donald Spoto (The Dark Side of Genius: The Life of Alfred Hitchcock) has compensated for her reticence by exhaustive research on the half-mythic actress. The result is a smoothly-written account of a woman whose business in life was the illusion she created.

Down Thunder Road: The Making of Bruce Springsteen

• Marc Eliot with Mike Appel, Simon and Schuster, $23

Songwriter Mike Appel signed Bruce Springsteen to a 12-page producer's contract 20 years ago in 1972. Neither Appel nor Springsteen would see much money for two years, since Appel put back into expenses whatever royalties came in as he barnstormed Springsteen from small and tawdry clubs onto CBS records and the covers of Time and Newsweek in the same week in 1975.

This whole sad story focusing on the bitterness which ensued between Springsteen and his manager/collaborator is one more chapter in a very large book that someone could write called Breaking Up Is Hard To Do.

Thankfully, this one was settled out of court and, while author Eliot strives to be fair, he had total cooperation from Appel and none from "Boss" Springsteen.

that the speakers have been placed in three locations, and have been tested for decibel (dB) output in each place. Mr. McPhail also said that the dB volume has been lowered as much as is possible without damaging the equipment, and that he and others in the club are hoping that townspeople will be willing to compromise for the few Sunday afternoon cruises left this season.

Frank Cabral of New Bedford Road agreed with Mr. McPhail, and said that the club's non-alcoholic Sunday cruises are family-oriented. He has seen three generations of family members enjoying the afternoon together. "You talk about family values," he said, "here it is."

Mr. McPhail also stressed the economic benefits of the club's Sunday afternoon cruises. He said, "90 to 95 percent of the people (attending the event) shop at the mall stores, or eat in the restaurant."

Although Mrs. Butts said that she also enjoys dining at the mall restaurant, she is still displeased with the sound level coming from that area on Sundays. Her reaction was shared by others. A letter from Susan Peterson indicated that although she was supportive of the concept of the cruises, she would prefer that the club meet in other towns in addition to Rochester. Margaret Dutra's letter was to the point when she wrote that her "visit was ruined by the horrible music."

Selectman Chairman Harry A. Brown Jr. was understanding of both sides of the dispute. Chairman Brown said he has enjoyed having the club in town, and would like to see it stay. However, he indicated that perception is also involved here — a noise level that seems unduly loud to residents of a quiet town like Rochester would not even be heard in downtown New Bedford. He has contacted the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP), and will borrow one of their decibel meters to take dB readings in and around the affected areas.

In another dispute mediated by Chairman Brown and Selectman Roy, Jill and Brian Gallagher agreed to restrain their Siberian Husky, "Bosco," voluntarily so that it would not "worry" the three registered Dorset sheep belonging to Robert Freitas. Although Rochester does not have a leash law, Selectman Brown said state law requires that dogs be under the "immediate control" of their owners.

Chairman Brown said that a dog chasing sheep is considered to be an animal "worrying" the sheep, and the Selectmen have the right to order that the dog be restrained. As the police department has three complaint reports on file, and Mr. Freitas said he has videotapes as proof, Chairman Brown asked the Gallaghers to restrain their dog voluntarily. They were told that if they do not comply, the selectmen have the authority to mandate a restraining order. The Gallaghers, who said that their dog was not creating as much trouble for the sheep as was being described, agreed to restrain their dog.

In other business, Selectmen read three bids submitted for the pulverizing of a mile's length of Snipatuit Road. Barco d/b/a Woodland Construction, Reynolds Equipment Company, and the Roads Corporation all submitted bids, which will be reviewed by the District 7 Highway Department of Public Works (DPW) in Middleboro prior to being awarded. Bids were also received for the repaving with bituminous asphalt along the same section of Snipatuit Road. Companies offering bids included the Larusso Corporation, T.L. Edwards, Inc., Tilcon, Barden-Trimont, and the Roads Corporation. Those bids were also taken under advisement.

Jean Lopes appeared before the board representing her sister, Julianne Tavares. Ms. Tavares had requested permission for an earth removal permit on work to be done at her cranberry bog. A prior permit request was withdrawn, necessitating going through the whole process again, for the bog located at the corner of High Street and Walnut Plain Road.

Selectman Roy requested that Ms. Tavares "make every attempt to pay back taxes," which Ms. Lopes promised would be done, adding that they have already paid about $7,000 in taxes to the town, and that the only outstanding taxes were those for this year. The Board agreed to issue the permit to Ms. Tavares, pending receipt of Ms. Tavares' passbook.

Thanks also to Jimmy Dexter who kept the shrubs neatly trimmed and to the Mattapoisett Highway Department for cutting the grass.

Special thanks to our neighbor, Kate Upton, who daily raises and lowers the Library flag. Thanks also to Mattapoisett Police's Safety Officer, Paul Magee, who helped our summer reading participants to "keep on truckin'."

1992-1993 Tandy Scholars

Bishop Stang High School is pleased to announce that Alison Fleming, a senior at the North Dartmouth School, and Mrs. Joyce Menard, a faculty member in the Math Department, have been nominated for 1992-1993 Tandy Scholars in Science, Math and Computer Science.

Alison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fleming of Mattapoisett, ranks number 3 in her class, has a grade point average of 4.0, and is involved in both athletic and extracurricular activities, including the Math Team.

Mrs. Menard, of South Dartmouth, teaches AP Calculus, College Placement Math and coordinated the Math Lab program for advanced students. She also coaches the Bishop Stang Math Team. Congratulation to these two outstanding nominees. Stang Alums AP Scholars

The 1992 graduates of Bishop Stang High School have been named AP Scholars by the College Board in recognition of their exceptional achievement on the college-level Advanced Placement (AP) Examinations. Only 11% of the 388,000 students who took AP Examinations in May 1992 performed at a sufficiently high level to merit such recognition.

These two students qualified for the AP Scholars Award by completing three or more AP Examinations with GPA's of 3.0 or higher. The Bishop Stang AP Scholars are Michelle Beaupre and Chris Dansereau. Michelle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Beaupre of New Bedford, is a freshman at the College of the Holy Cross, and Chris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Dansereau of Fairhaven, is a freshman at Sacred Heart University.

Continental Cablevision

Continental Cablevision will celebrate Local Programming Week October 5 - 11, 1992 by highlighting the best of local programs and taking viewers on "Continental Journeys," a series of thought-provoking documentaries produced by Continental Community channels across the country.

"Over the past year, Continental Cable's Channel 8 has provided 500 hours of original local programming for and about Marion, Mattapoisett, Rochester and Wareham," said Deborah Stinson, Program Director. "It's coverage of community events, government, issues and people that's available nowhere else on television."

"We're proud of the Continental programming staff and the many community volunteers who have worked so hard to inform and entertain our cable viewers," said Carol Ditata, General Manager. "National Local Programming Week is our opportunity to spotlight and share the best efforts with the community."

Among the local programming Continental's Channel 8 will highlight during the week are: Wareham High School's 50th Reunion; 8 at 8 News & Events; Speak Out with Wareham High Principal Daniel Burke; Sportspourri; The Alternative; Faith in Action; TV Trivia; Drawing with Dave.

"Continental Journeys" will offer viewers the best local documentaries by Continental community television producers nationwide. These documentaries touch on universal subjects ranging from what it takes to be an Olympic hero to the issues of waste management.

Contributing to the wealth of local programming in Marion, Mattapoisett, Rochester and Wareham are community volunteers, many of whom produce their own cable programs after taking video production workshops offered by Continental.

"Continental and volunteers from the community have worked very hard to make our local programming efforts reflect the needs and interests of our communities," Ditata said. "I hope people will tune in to Channel 8, October 5 through 11 and see not only what's happening in their community, but also look at what is special about other communities across the nation."

Continental Cablevision of Marion has served the area for more than 12 years. It currently provides cable television service to 11,000 customers.

Facilitated Communication Benefit

An evening of fun and dancing to the music of the Funky White Honkies is being held Friday, October 2 at The Seaport Inn in Fairhaven. Sponsored by The Friends of Facilitated Communication, the dance will begin at 7:00 pm and tickets are $10.00

The fundraisers are based at New Bedford Harbor Services (NBHS), a non-profit agency assisting persons with mental retardation. Recently, facilitated communication, or learning to type messages with assistance, has enabled many clients at Harbor to communicate with words for the very first time. Monies raised through this evening, plus donations from vendors and the community, will be used to purchase equipment for the project.

"Many clients are benefiting from facilitated communication. You can imagine if you were able to express some need or talk to a family member for the first time. Our clients are eager to use the keyboards but don't have enough to go around. It's an exciting time at NBHS, but we need the financial support of the community to make the most of these advances for our clients," said Gene Pizzolato, a speech and language pathologist at NBHS.

Donations may be sent to New Bedford Harbor Services at P.O. Box 51172, New Bedford, MA 02745. Tickets may be purchased by calling NBHS at 996-6613, or purchased at the door.

Don't miss this chance to help and enjoy an awesome evening with the Funky White Honkies who have contributed part of their fee to the cause.

Museum Celebrates Columbus

In celebration of the 500th Anniversary of the voyage of Columbus, the Rotch-Jones-Duff House and Garden Museum is privileged to have two exhibits on loan through October 12. The first is a collection of contemporary paintings and sketches from the Azorean City of Angra. In this exhibit the works of eight artists, representing different mediums, present the history and pulse of this beautiful city which is listed in the UNESCO World Heritage List.

The second exhibit is a collection of photographs which tell the story of Columbus in the Madeira Islands (Porto Santo and Madeira). Columbus' wife's family lived in Porto Santo. He arrived there in 1478 and during his short stay, Columbus became acquainted with the navigational techniques used by the Portuguese and is said to have "learned of secrets kept in the memories of the native seamen, about the existence of western lands." His gratitude towards the Madeirans brought him back to the archipelago in 1498, during his third voyage. At this time he had the opportunity to narrate what he had discovered to those who, like him, cherished the existence of new territories.

The Rotch-Jones-Duff House and Garden Museum is pleased to have the opportunity to host these exhibits. "They underscore once again the proud connection we feel to the Azores," says Director Anne Brengle. Emma Chambers Jones, Edward Coffin Jones' wife, was the granddaughter of Thomas Hickling who was at one time American Vice Consul to the Azores at St. Michael.

The exhibits are sponsored by the Casa dos Açores of New England and the center for the study of the History of Atlantic, Funchal, Madeira. They come to the Museum through the kindness of the Department of Portuguese and Brazilian Studies at Brown University.

Admission is $3.00, Museum members free. Refreshments will be served. For further information please contact Anne Brengle at 997-1401.

Lloyd Center

Shell Walk

Join the Lloyd Center on October 4 for a Shell Walk with resident shell expert Dennis Vieira. Walk along the beaches and learn what shells you may expect to find along the shores of Southeastern New England. Fall is an ideal time to search for shells because the fall storms wash shells to shore and there are very few beachgoers to collect them. This walk will last from 9:00 to 11:00 am.

The fee for this walk is free to members and $6.00 for non-members.

Assonet River Canoe Trip

Canoe the small streams that feed the Assonet River with naturalists from the Lloyd Center for Environmental Studies on Saturday, October 10.

The Assonet lies north of Fall River. Its tributaries wind their way through cedar swamps and fresh and saltwater marshes, providing access to the virtual wilderness that lies within the city's backyard.

The trip, which starts at 9:00 am and should be completed by 4:00 pm, will begin with a review of paddling skills and canoe safety. Participants should bring their own lunches and plenty of liquid refreshments.

The cost of the trip is $15 for Lloyd Center members, $20 for non-members. There is an additional charge of $4 per person for canoe rental, but participants are welcome to supply their own canoes.

South Island of Monomoy

Join the Lloyd Center on October 11 for a trip to the South Island of Monomoy. Monomoy Island is a superb site to view a variety of birds. Migrating birds as well as the indigenous population provide Monomoy Island with one of the best birding opportunities available. This trip will run from 7:00 am to 5:00 pm with transportation to the island and the departure point being provided. Be sure to sign early, as space is limited. Participants are urged to bring a lunch, binoculars, and plenty of liquids.

The fee for this trip is $40 for members and $45 for non-members.

Please pre-register for these trips, and for further information contact the Lloyd Center at 990-0505, P.O. Box 87037, South Dartmouth, MA 02748.

The Video Review

By Rob Gonsalves

My Cousin Vinny (R) — A pleasant but overlong and very minor Joe Pesci vehicle that somehow became one of the year's big hits. Here, Pesci is an inept lawyer trying to defend two innocent guys in court. For most of the movie, Pesci seems unhappy and distracted; he can't bring much to the scenes where he sits around reading law books. He forfeits the film to Marisa Tomei, who plays his loudmouth girlfriend with great energy and timing, and who makes the movie worth a rental all by herself. The rest of it is Joe Pesci Lite — the usual mugging, fidgeting, and gesturing. He's a great actor, but movies like this seem like his preparation for a sitcom. C+

Medicine Man (PG-13) — Bungle in the jungle. Sean Connery is a ponytailed, virile scientist who has cloistered himself in the steam of the rainforest; he has stumbled upon the cure for cancer, but he lost the formula and can't duplicate the serum. (Happens to me all the time.) As the off-putting young chemist comes to help Connery, Lorraine Bracco is the definition of shrill. Maybe the heat got to her, or maybe the director, John McTiernan, coached her to speak her lines so that people at the refreshment stand could hear her. The movie is reheated Tarzan pulp, with a fake-intellectual gloss and overall sour tone. D

Bird Club. Area residents wishing to participate are cordially invited. The bird walk will start from the parking lot at Bayside Restaurant, Horseneck Road, South Westport, just north of East Horseneck town beach. Meeting time is set at 8:30 am.

Jerry Barros of South Dartmouth, seasoned birder and club member, will lead the walk in search of the various shore and marsh birds and occasional raptors that frequent the barrier beach environment; it is known to be a favorite feeding and resting area for many migratory bird species.

Depending on meteorological conditions, an extension of the walk may be made to include Gooseberry Neck with its different habitat, one typically attractive to small birds, migratory as well as wintering. Additionally it is an important stop-over point for monarch butterflies in their annual southward migration.

A special lecture and slide show all about Eastern bluebirds is planned for the October evening meeting of the bird club on the 14th, when a nationally prominent authority on the species, Lillian Files of Tyngsboro, will be guest speaker. Non-members will be welcome and may attend gratis. The club meets at 7:30 pm in the community hall of the Allen's Neck Meeting House, 739 Horseneck Road, Dartmouth, MA.

"Fees are kept to a minimum, just barely covering expenses, and topics are chosen to reflect the needs and interests of our business community," added Mr. Mitchell.

University of Massachusetts Dartmouth, the national economy was coming off a recession and small businesses were poised to grow into large ones.

"Money was freely available in the 1980's — business had a heyday and expanded rapidly. For some, the expansion was too rapid. That's why we're in trouble now. We've come full cycle," says Clyde Mitchell, director of the Small Business Development Center (SBDC).

Today, the recession has flattened business growth. Some forecasters believe that the hundreds of thousands of jobs lost will only return in the form of small businesses. Right now, they employ 80 percent of the workforce, Mitchell says.

Yet even now, according to Mitchell, "most government assistance goes to larger businesses. Companies with 500 employees don't need the SBDC, small businesses do."

Since August 1982, the SBDC has provided 2600 clients a year with free business advice on the full array of issues small business owners have to address: marketing, finance, human resource management, creation of a business plan. The only consulting services the SBDC doesn't provide are legal and accounting.

"Typically, 90 percent of our clients have 20 or fewer employees with a gross of less than $1 million a year," Mitchell says. "Our philosophy is that if you can afford a private consultant, then you should do that. We're here to help those who can't."

Mitchell says marketing, financial and human resources management consultants usually command $50 to $100 an hour — the latter fee is typical of large firms and of those in the Boston area. "It mounts up," he observes.

SBDC services are free because half of its $236,000 operating budget is provided by the federal Small Business Administration. Mitchell says credit for that allocation has to go to Congress. Presidents Reagan and Bush annually vetoed the appropriation, but Congress came up with the override each time.

The balance of the budget comes in equal shares from state government and, in the form of in-kind services, from the University. "The state legislature deserves a lot of credit for funding the SBDC. They level-funded us this year, because they see the value of our services to their constituents. We return $5 to the state on every dollar spent," Mitchell says.

However, the University's services are invaluable. "No other agency could do what we do, because they don't have the University behind them," he says.

The SBDC's methods for reaching and serving its clients encompass all the marketing techniques it advises its clients to apply. It reaches out to small business owners over the broad geographical area that is southeastern Massachusetts by sending its consultants and the director out on the road: Jose Freitas is a management consultant who specializes in marketing. Jim Sullivan's specialties are management and financial packaging. A third consultant is to be hired shortly.

The SBDC also holds training workshops and seminars at its headquarters in the Fall River Chamber of Commerce and elsewhere, sends press announcements to the media, and answers questions from persons needing to know where they can obtain licenses and permits, makes contacts with importers and exporters and people in state government, and obtain access to databases. "We get hundreds of phone calls each day from people asking us where they can find something," he says.

Many times that place is UMass Dartmouth. For example, the UMass Dartmouth Library's Project ASC is the 'port-of-entry' for business access to an array of databases on markets, statistical and technical data.

Faculty and students provide another valuable resource. "Jack Chopoorian's MBA students do market research and feasibility studies. Other students conduct focus groups on marketing problems and opportunities. It's a tremendous opportunity for students to address real world problems and test what they've learned," Mitchell says.

Training sessions the SBDC hold are designed to meet the needs of their clients — as determined by their own marketing research — and also to steer clients in new directions. Two major training sessions planned for this fall will push Total Quality Management and exporting.

Ten years of running the SBDC has given Mitchell a broad perspective on the southeastern Massachusetts small business community and its future directions.

Zeiterion Travelogue Series

1992-1993 Travelogue Series

"Italy — The Places in Between" opens the 1992-93 Travelogue Series on Friday, October 2 at 7:00 pm at New Bedford's Zeiterion Theater sponsored by Baker Books, Compass Bank and the Durant Sail Loft Inn. In the coming season, the Zeiterion will present four additional travelogues: "Portugal and its Fabled Islands of Madeira and the Azores" on Saturday, November 7; "Canada's National Parks" on Friday, January 22; "A New England Sampler" on Friday, February 26; and "Image of Greece" on Friday, April 30.

There are so many places in Italy that the hurried tourist never sees. Some of the most beautiful and charming towns lie off the beaten path and are part of an enchanting journey to "Italy — The Places in Between" hosted by the filmmaker himself, Frank Mugno. During the evening, the audience will experience the wonders of this country as they explore the villages of Southern Italy, the valley of Aosta and the Dolomite Range of northeastern Italy.

Some of the highlights include singing and dancing with a local folk group in Cogne, a dairy farm in the high Alps to see the famous Fontina cheese made the old fashioned way; seeing the marble quarries of Carrara, the same mountains where Michelangelo selected marble blocks for his sculptures; visiting the famous walled city of San Gimignano with its 15 towers and the city of Cortina, the 1956 site of the winter Olympics and still a center for winter sports.

Sarasate's "Zigeunerweisen, Op. 20, No. 1."

The 62nd season of the Greater New Bedford Concert Series will also include the award-winning pianist, Emanuel Ax on Friday, January 15, 1993; and the Leipzig Chamber Orchestra of Germany in their first North American visit on Thursday, February 25, 1993. The series is also offering a special added attraction - Puccini's romantic opera, "La Boheme" on Sunday, November 22 presented by the Western Opera Theater of San Francisco.

Heralded by critics and fellow musicians as one of the most remarkable artists of this century, Midori has been called "The stuff of legends" by The San Francisco Examiner, "Simply superb" by the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and "A veritable wonder" by The Los Angeles Times.

Now at age 20, Midori has been performing professionally since she was four years old. From the beginning she has been a prodigy even though she doesn't believe it. She just considers herself to be lucky.

In a recent Boston Globe interview, she said, "All my life, people have referred to me as a prodigy ...

'prodigy' is a label. I don't like to be categorized. I'm lucky because I love to play my violin. I'm lucky because I'm doing what I want to do."

Born in Osaka, Japan, Midori moved to New York when she was 10 years old with her mother, Setsu Goto, a professional violinist and teacher. In New York, she studied at the Juilliard School of Music. She credits her mother with her success, and said, "I started playing the violin because I wanted to be exactly like my mother. Because she played, I wanted to play."

In less than a decade, since her brilliant debut with the New York Philharmonic in 1982, Midori has shared the greater concert stages of the world with such eminent artists as Claudio Abbado, Vladimir Ashkernazy, Daniel Bareboim, Leonard Bernstein, Charles Dutoit, Yo-Yo Ma, Zubin Mehta, Andre Previn, Isaac Stern and Pinchas Zukerman, and with such prestigious ensembles as the Berlin Philharmonic, the Chicago Symphony, the Israel Philharmonic, the London Symphony, the Los Angeles Philharmonic, L'Orchestre de Paris and the Philadelphia Orchestra.

Midori's recital will be followed by an on-stage reception sponsored by the Greater New Bedford Concert Series, the Fairhaven/New Bedford Tosashimizu Sister-City Committee and the Zeiterion featuring Japanese and American refreshments. Tickets for the reception are $15 for adults, and $5 for students 17 years old and under with all proceeds to benefit the Sister-City Committee and the Zeiterion. For reception tickets, call the Zeiterion Box Office at 994-2900.

Tickets for Midori's concert are $22, $26 and $30. Senior/students $2 discount. Group rates are available. Subscription prices for the three concerts — Midori, Emanuel Ax and the Leipzig Chamber Orchestra — are $45, $57 and $69; and the special selection "La Boheme" purchased with the subscription is $16, $20 and $24. Subscriptions and individual tickets are available at the Zeiterion Box Office. To charge tickets over the phone, call TicketMaster at 1-931-2000.

Midori's concert is presented by ICM Artist, Ltd. The Greater New Bedford Concert Series is supported, in part, by the Massachusetts Cultural Council, a state agency, and with funds from the Council administered by the New Bedford Arts Lottery Council.

DanceBrazil at Zeiterion

DanceBrazil, re-owned for its breath-taking dances including the martial arts dances, Capoeira and Maculele, will present two shows on Friday, October 9, one for school children at 10:00 am and a public performance at 8:00 pm at New Bedford's Zeiterion Theater. The Portuguese Channel/The Portuguese Times is sponsoring this vibrant company of dancers, singers and musicians presenting their latest performance, "Tent of Miracles."

DanceBrazil has performed to sold-out audiences and rave reviews across the country. The San Antonio Light exclaimed, "Maravilhoso." (That's Portuguese for marvelous, wonderful, amazing, extraordinary.) "From the mystical undulations of the African rites and spirits in Candomble, to the mesmerizing gyrations of the fight-dance Capoeira, DanceBrazil filled the stage and the audience's senses with pulsing color, movement and song," reviewed The Day of New London, CT.

Under the direction of Jelton Vieira, master Capoeirista and acclaimed modern Choreographer, DanceBrazil's repertoire ranges from traditional to modern Afro-Brazilian dance including the Samba — the sensual and frolicsome national dance of Brazil — and the candomble ritual dances to the dances to the African gods. The company's dances are rooted in Brazilian history going back to the 1500's when thousands of Africans were brought to Brazil as slaves. The Africans developed the dance, maculele, in the sugar-cane fields of Bahia, and the capoeira, a combination of dance and martial arts.

In an interview with The New Yorker, Mr. Vieira said, "Capoeira is a dance which is a fight and a fight which is a dance ... unlike the Oriental martial arts, capoeira incorporates music and dance into its moves ... it is commonly believed that capoeira was developed by African slaves brought to Brazil ... according to the theory, the slaves invented it in order to fight their captors and gain their freedom, and they camouflaged their deadly moves and kicks by setting them to music and making them look like a harmless dance."

Capoeira is performed to the rapid, insistent beats of drums and the twangs of a bamboo-and-wire bow shaped instrument call a Berimbau. "Capoeira has everything," rhapsodizes the master, Vieira. "Sport, martial art, dance, fitness, as well as music and a rich cultural history."

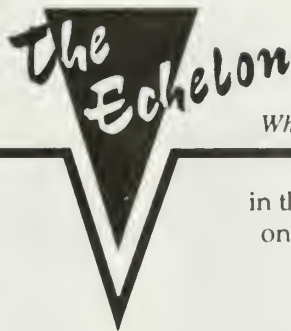

DanceBrazil will perform for 4th through 8th Graders at 10:00 am and this school time performance is open for public ticket sales. General admission tickets are $5 each, and are limited. All of the School Time Performances open with a live organ recital on the theater's restored Grimshaw-Gudewicz Wurlitzer Theater Organ performed by members of the Southeastern New England Theater Organ Society, the caretakers of the organ.

Tickets for DanceBrazil's public performance at 8:00 pm are $12, $16 and $20.

The Great Aardvark Hunt

Good luck and happy hunting!
